

English IV

In-class Five-paragraph essay

Topic: (see Brave New World page on your website)

What is the purpose of the games that are played in this society?

- Refer in particular to the Director's statement at the beginning of Chapter 3.
- Refer at least to the statements like "Ending is better than mending. The more stitches, the less riches..."
- Also consider Fanny's statement later in the same chapter when she says "...one's got to play the game. After all, everyone belongs to everyone else."
- To what extent in this novel has this society reduced life to a series of clichés and sex to a game?
- Remember to use sufficient evidence.

- Use your text, notes (see website if necessary) and your opinion but do NOT use any external resources.
(Mr. Janes will be like Big Brother, always watching...)
- Stay ON topic for credit.
- Three subtopics (development is, as always, your choice but answer all questions).
- Avoid avoidable errors such as spelling, punctuation, grammar and formal voice (see the The Five-Paragraph Essay Format document on your website for reference).
- Due saved as "Essay 2" in your English IV folder and PRINTED/HANDED IN to Mr. Janes by the end of the period today.
